25 FEB - 8 MAR 2020

An extreme cycle tour with a difference.

A tour that will impact your life and change the lives of others.

A tour unlike any other cycle tour in South-Africa.

the BEGINNING

IN 2013 THREE BUSINESSMEN AND EXTREME CYCLISTS DECIDED TO TAKE A STAND AGAINST CHILD ABUSE...

Not only did they commit to cycle from Johannesburg to Cape Town to raise awareness of child abuse in South Africa, but they also agreed to reach out to rural communities by speaking at schools on the way.

The first Xtreme for Kids Cycle tour in 2013 had three participants, no sponsorship, little back up support. relied on the good will of Samaritans on the way and the support of the South African Police Services. Through media exposure millions heard their messages and they reached thousands of children. The successful impact of the visits to the schools in the rural areas, motivated Matla A Bana to develop several school programs to accompany the tour.

During the next tours actors like Ivan Zimmerman and Llandi Pelsier (Republic of Zoid) joined on the stage. Our child protection heroes - Captain Bully Buster, Moompi and Smiley educated them on bullying, the dangers of keeping secrets, recognizing tricksters and their tricks and protecting themselves against them. To date thousands of children have heard these important messages.

During the six years of its existence, more than 45 cyclists have entered. To date five cyclists have managed to complete the full tour – Dirk Lourens (our tour leader – 7 successful tours), Allan Klette (business consultant – 3 successful tours), Andre Van Rooyen (SAPS Cycling team – 2 successful tours), Gerrit Jonker (SAPS cycling team - 1 successful tour) and Marco Calitz (Professional – 2 successful tours).

Since its humble beginnings, the Xtreme for Kids Cycle Tour has made its mark as one of the most difficult, but also life changing cycling events in South Africa. This tour is not about cycling only – it is about overcoming extreme conditions, team spirit, experiencing true South African hospitality and about touching and changing lives.

Children challenged to be heroes

Three-hundred cyclists, all part of the Xtronic Cycle Tour group, arrived in Durban yesterday (Saturday 10 March) for a 10-day tour - challenging children across South Africa to become 'heroes'.

They have been cycling from Johannesburg to Cape Town to make a statement of the real state of affairs in South Africa.

This was the second tour of its sort. The project started in 1993 when three Johannesburg businessmen took up the challenge of provincial police commissioners. Late last General Aftab Cassim, who stated that there are the perpetrators of rape and murder.

A group of approximately 15 cyclists, including men and women of various ages, are posing for a group photo on a dirt road. They are all wearing cycling gear, including helmets, jerseys, and shorts. Many are holding up their bikes, and some are waving. The background shows a dirt road stretching into the distance with trees and a clear sky.

Cycle tour raises R150 000

About R100 000 was raised this year with Matla & Bana's annual Stridyners for Kids cycle tour.

The team of about six cyclists, who took the route over 18 days from Johannesburg to Cape Town, arrived in Durbanville on Saturday morning and took part in The Cape Town Cycle Tour on Sunday.

They were accompanied by 1000 spectators and proceeded through the Free State, Northern and Eastern Cape, but due to illness not all cyclists cycled the whole distance of about 2000km.

Matla & Bana were active Free State musicians, who in 1986 began for Kim Cato to Cape Town cycling and singing, and Luc Stridyn (14), son of Monique Stridyn, founder of the Matla & Bana band.

Under the guidance of Zimmerman they performed a play to educate learners of music in schools in Krugersdorp, Bothaville, Midburg (Northern Cape), Aberdeen, George and Mossel Bay on Saturday. All schools raised were in aid of Matla & Bana's "No Child Rapes" campaign.

The cyclists were welcomed on Saturday

Xtreme for Kids Cycle tour – A cycle tour with a difference

2018-04-12

The Xtreme for Kids Cycle Tour starts annually 11 days before the Cape Town Cycle Tour and runs from Johannesburg to Cape Town with the last day cycling the Cape Town Cycle Tour.

"Put your hands on your head! Put your hands on your shoulders! Put your hands on your knees. That is what it is all about and turn!" Attempting to do the turn, the group of all male cyclists slide around on their cleats much to the delight of the 500 children watching them.

It is the 6th day of the Xtreme for Kids Cycle tour and the cycling team finds them in a small school in rural Aberdeen. They have just completed two gruelling days totalling 515km of cycling, with another long stretch of 235km still ahead. As the group look into the excited faces of the schoolchildren who are in awe of their dance moves, all they can think of is the difference they are making.

The Xtreme for Kids Cycle Tour saw the light when 2013 three business men responded to a challenge by General Arno Lamoer (then SAPS Provincial Commissioner of the Western Cape). He challenged men to stand up against child abuse. The group, under the leadership of extreme athlete, Dirk Lourens, collaborated with hostage survivor, Monique Strydom and her organisation Matla A Bana – A Voice against child abuse. The plan was not only to cycle from Johannesburg to Cape Town via the Karoo and end the tour with participation in the Cape Town Cycle Tour, but also to reach deep into rural communities with a special school program presented at schools.

"The success rate of completion of the this Xtreme tour, is not very high," explains Dirk Lourens, who rates this as one of the most difficult cycling challenges in South Africa. "This is not about physical endurance only, it is about mental strength. To cycle for such a long period up to 13 hours a day, facing extreme heat and strong winds and still be positive, is not for everyone." Up to date only 10% of cyclists who joined have managed to complete the whole tour. This year four team cyclists (with the average age of 46 years old) competed the tour.

A very special quality of this tour is the community involvement along the way- from a treat to Karoo Sushi on the top of a mountain to home cooked meals at private homes. For business consultant, Alan Klette, who has done his third tour the impact on the children is first prize, but for him another highlight is the incredible people they meet along the way and the teamwork between the cyclists and backup crew.

"There are many cycle tours similar to ours," explains organiser Monique Strydom, "but none of them has the impact on local communities like this one has. This tour is not only about extreme cycling, but it is about extreme emotions and extreme impact and lives being changed." Every year more than 5000 children hear the child protection messages spread by the group and their support team with the special school visits along the route.

The tour has the full support of the South African Police Services who also render their assistance along the way and during the school visits, should a child wish to disclose any crime against them. During the last 6 years of its existence, more than 40 000 children were reached in rural areas where outreaches are seldom seen.

"This cycling tour is a life changing experience," says Lt Col Andre Van Rooyen, SAPS National Team cyclist from Graaff Reinet. His is echoing the sentiment of many of the 45 plus cyclists who have participated in this tour during the last six years. For most of the cyclists, this tour of 1890 km, starts out as an endurance cycle challenge, but quickly becomes a stark reminder of the dangers children in South Africa face every day.

The funds raised with the tour are still affecting communities and children. Matla A Bana creates Child Friendly Reporting Facilities at police stations and such facilities were created in the Western Cape, Gauteng and the Southern Cape with these funds.

These facilities help thousands of children every year who report crimes against them. The team (Dirk Lourens, Alan Klette, Lt Col Andre Van Rooyen, Lt Col Mike Henning and junior Marco Callitz) received a hero's welcome at the welcoming event at Willowbridge on 10 March 2018. To them their passion – cycling – has become a powerful tool to bring about change in the lives of many young children.

WHY ARE WE GOING XTREME...

IN SOUTH AFRICA A CHILD IS RAPED EVERY 3 MINUTES

MOST OF THEM ARE GIRLS BETWEEN 8 & 12 YEARS

In 80% of the cases they have been raped
by someone they know, like a father, a grandfather, a brother, a stepfather.

Xtreme for Kids Cycle tour helps us to educate thousands of children in rural areas. It helps us create awareness of the plight of our children. It helps us raise funds to help thousands of abused children every year.

THAT IS WHY WE GO XTREME!

matla a bana

Matla A Bana was founded by ex-hostage, Monique Strydom, after the rapes of babies Leratho and Tsepang in 2002. The aim of MAB is to minimise the secondary abuse children suffer when they report rape and abuse against them.
